Information we collect

Contact information such as your name, telephone number, mailing address and e-mail address.

Information sharing

We do not share your personal information with third parties.

Information security

We take reasonable precautions to protect your personal information from unauthorized access, use, or disclosure. Fleur d'olive employees record any information that must be kept in digital format for consultation, rental, or administrative purposes on the secure database. Despite this, no security mechanism can guarantee perfect protection and a residual risk will always exist.

Privacy incident management

A privacy incident is any situation in which Fleur d'olive has reasonable grounds to believe that one of the following incidents has occurred: (1) unlawful access to personal information; (2) unlawful use of personal information; (3) unlawful disclosure of personal information; and (4) loss of personal information.

In the event of a privacy incident, Fleur d'olive will:

- Take all reasonable measures to reduce the risk of harm being caused and prevent further incidents of a similar nature.
- Notify any individual affected by the privacy incident in accordance with applicable laws and regulations.

Your legal rights

You have the right to access, modify, or delete your personal information. You may withdraw your consent to the collection and use of your personal information at any time. However, this may prevent us from providing you with adequate services. You have rights in accordance with legal and regulatory requirements. If you wish to exercise these rights, please inform us.

Please note that we reserve the right to modify this Privacy Policy at any time to maintain compliance and reflect any changes to our personal information collection process.
